I Am a Bully

Everyone has been a bully, a victim of bullying or known someone who has been bullied. Are there really more bullies today? How to avoid being a bully or being bullied will be discussed and explored. How to help small children or adults will be explained. Larry is a retired educator with 30 plus years of experience in this area. Bring $5.00 for materials and an open mind.

Sellout: Racial Betrayal or Racial Loyalty

African Americans that are raised in the urban core and relocate to the suburbs, are they considered a sellout? Is a sellout among African Americans an individual that promotes the Republican versus Democrat political party? In this course, there will be group discussions, movie clips shown, and references to different books that expound on the theoretical framework for the idea of a sellout. The objective of this course is for individuals to gain a better understanding on how racial betrayal or loyalty may or may not cause social divisions between African Americans.

Say No to Fossil Fuels—Cook with the Sun

At 10:00 am we will hurry to get our lunch (some meat, some vegetarian, and some locally grown) into a variety of different solar cookers, then we’ll discuss the cookers. We’ll watch a video on solar cooking and build a working solar cooker out of cardboard boxes, that participants can take home. We’ll eat the food we cook, enjoy a solar food drying demonstration and discuss the benefits of solar cooking in Kansas City and the world. There will be handouts. Join us as we begin reducing our carbon footprint one solar cooker at a time.

The symposium’s goal is to bring together many local organizations - particularly church and mission groups - working in Haiti. This is an opportunity to network and share ideas, successes, and, most importantly, lessons learned. The focus will be on practical solutions to real problems such as communication, local accountability, logistical efficiencies and development of authentic Haitian partners.

Saturday, June 15th, 9 a.m. – Noon
Rockhurst University, Massman Room 250, 1100 Rockhurst Road, Kansas City, MO
